

To be quick on the coastline - that stretches 1.700 kilometres - is no problem in Vorpommern.

Sun, sand & sea

Nowhere in Germany has as much sunshine as Vorpommern - in fact, it has on average 2,000 hours every year. On the holiday islands Rugen and Usedom as well as the peninsula Fischland-Darss-Zingst, endless sandy beaches, white-washed Baltic Sea resorts, classy promenades and nature reserves are right on the doorstep. The islands provide ideal conditions for wind surfing and kite boarding, sailing, bathing or beach volleyball. Even cyclists, horse riders and canoeists are in for a real treat here. Cool parties are guaranteed by discotheques and bars, numerous clubs in the university towns of Greifswald and Stralsund, as well as some beaches. Behind the historical city walls of the Hanseatic towns, boutiques, shopping centres, cafes and restaurants invite you to shop and linger a while. With the Ozeaneum in Stralsund, the Königsstuhl National Park and the Pomeranian State Museum in Greifswald, the region commands three visitor centres of an international format.

Tourist magnet: the chalk cliffs on the island of Rugen.

Vorpommern – right in the middle

Right up north but nonetheless close by - that's Vorpommern. The popular holiday destination is not far from Berlin, Hamburg and Szczecin in Poland. And as the Baltic Sea motorway, the A 20, runs right through Vorpommern, it only takes two to three hours to get to these hubs. For those who don't have their own car, these can be reached almost as quickly with the ICE or IC trains.

A trend to health

With a healthy ocean climate and a lot of sunshine, the region, popular as a health resort and holiday destination, entices over four million visitors every year. After tremendous investment in recent years, the health sector in the region is one of the most modern in Europe again. And it's continuing to grow. For this reason, healthcare professionals can find promising opportunities here.

Those who want to get started in the health care business can carry out a three-year nursing apprenticeship in Greifswald, for example. The numerous hospitals, specialist practices, health centres and nursing homes in the region ensure good opportunities for job starters.

Nursing and therapeutic professions are in great demand.

The future is tourism

Vorpommern is not only blessed with the best natural conditions when it comes to rest and recovery, but the coast which spans 1.700 km is home to an above-average number of hoteliers - anything from a 5-star hotel to a campsite. Barely any other region in Europe has such a high concentration of certified wellness hotels.

Junior employees in the hotel and catering industry have particularly promising prospects here. For those who carry out a three-year apprenticeship in hotel and restaurant management or cookery, there are diverse opportunities in one of the most popular holiday destinations in Germany.

Enjoy the sun after a stroll through town. The many cafes and restaurants on the market square in Greifswald encourage you to linger a while.

Medieval and modern: Many students from Germany and abroad live and study in the UNESCO World Heritage town Stralsund.

The prospects for craftsmanship

Ships, bridges and churches - in Vorpommern, people have always achieved great things. And even today, industry and craftsmanship continue to stimulate growth. With its tradition of craftsmanship, junior employees with skills and brains can shape their futures as mechanics, metal workers and electricians in Vorpommern. A master craftsman apprenticeship at the district's craftsmen's association gives such a career added momentum.

Good childcare and an abundance of nature makes Vorpommern attractive for families.

Bright prospects for families

Vorpommern offers broad opportunities for families. Soon you are outside the city centres and find yourself in the rural or maritime outskirts. High-quality day care for children is extensively available, so day nurseries take care of the children while its parents are at work. There are specific educational concepts offered, ranging from encouraging children to discover music or sports at an early age, to Montessori or Waldorf kindergartens. Also, the region is answering the demographic change by providing retirement homes of different approaches for the senior citizens. In this setup, Vorpommern provides perfect conditions for balancing family and career.

Craftsmanship and industry in Vorpommern provides job starters with diverse opportunities.
